SOLAR FARM (POTENTIAL)

Concerned county residents came to the meeting to gain more information regarding the company wanting to come into the county and create a solar farm.

Economic Development Director Kristin Clary gave information about the company. Chad Colvin, county resident, felt if they were a fortune 500 company why do they need a tax abatement. Should they not have enough money to do the project without it? Ms. Clary said that was not for her to decide.

Fuhrman stated the Commissioners and Council would have to weigh the pros and cons and see if this was beneficial for the county. They were in the process of gathering information to decide. The Commissioners would research and see if they want to approve the economic development and the Council would have to decide if they want to grant an abatement.

The concerned residents attending tonight's meeting were not for the solar company coming into the county and taking away productive farmland for 35 years. And after that time, they felt the land would not be good farmland for a long time to come. They were also concerned with the materials for the solar panels contaminating the ground and water.

Other citizens that would be right beside the solar farm were concerned with the impact of what it would do to the value of their property. They had been told by a realtor that it would be hard to sell if they wanted to in the future. It was also stated they did not want to look at a six-foot fence when they walked out of their house.

Residents were very concerned with protecting the farmland. Looking out for the future of their kids and grandkids.

The Commissioners and Council were recently approached. They were just at the point of gathering information.
